HONDO OWLS WIN BI-DISTRICT TITLE

Playing before an overflow crowd on Barry Field here last Friday night, the Hondo Owls won a decisive victory over the Karnes City Badgers by a score of 38-0 and added to their laurels the bi-district championship title. The Owls swept into the Region 10-A championship final opposite the Weslaco Panthers.

The Owls, champions of District 37-A, scored in every period of the game, Taylor scoring three touchdowns and one each made by Woolls, Mueller and Finger. Taylor not only carried over for three touchdowns but heaved the pass to Mueller for a fourth score and kicked two extra points. Woolls was featured in this running game and scored the first touchdown early in the first quarter following a fumble by the badgers. A hot pass from left-handed Koch to Taylor also resulted in a score.

John Smolk stood out for the losers and gave the Owls some bad moments. Karnes City, champions of District 38-A, showed plenty of spirit and made 10 first downs on Hondo. Hondo made 15 first downs. Costly fumbles marred the Badgers' play, while the Owls were guilty of one bad fumble which was covered by the Badgers.

Hondo men seeing action in the game were Mueller, Bracen, Oefinger, Garber, Dawson, Dominguez, Britsch, Finger, Taylor, Koch, and Woolls, starting lineup; and Martin, Williams, Boon, Goff, Embrey, McWilliams, Ricketts, Brucks, C. Braden and Swonger, substitutions.

C. O. EXPRESSES THANKS IN HAAF FAREWELL MESSAGE

"More fortunate and delightful for me would have been my assignment to Hondo Army Air Field for any other reason than inactivation of the base, but it was a genuine pleasure to return after a previous brief duty tour at this station," Col. James A. Ronin, HAAF commandant, said in a statement addressed to the post personnel and citizens of Hondo and Medina County.

"The citizenry of this area and the men and officers of this base have every reason to be proud of this Air Force installation," he said.

"I speak for the past commanders of Hondo Field in expressing deep appreciation to all who had a part in the building and maintaining of one of the Air Forces' most important, most efficient and most productive training installations, and to Medina County citizens who have been perfect hosts and helped make our sojourn here pleasant as well as our work fruitful.

"I express my gratitude, too, to the personnel of this station, both military and civilian, for carrying on their work unrelentingly, especially during the transitional period since V-J day, in the traditional manner which three and a half years ago evidenced itself at Hondo Field where organized aerial navigation was pioneered."

"Hondo Field has made military training history," he added. "When the chips were down, its assembly-line manufacture of dauntless and highly-skilled airmen was a major contribution to the turning of aerial warfare in America's favor, making for an earlier victory.

"In Many ways I regret the assignment to inactivate a station with such a remarkable record of achievements behind it, but I am gratified that the personnel who shared in accomplishing Hondo Field's vital war mission now are enabled to turn their efforts to more pleasant and lasting peacetime pursuits with the knowledge of having done well an important job to speed victory and demobilization.

"This month is the turning point in the lives of many who are or have been stationed here, and while the present feeling of most is that of mixed anxiety and anticipation of returning to home and loved ones and normal individual pursuits, eventually there will come pleasant moments of fond reminiscence of assignments made it impossible to attend.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. R. W. RICHTER

The wintry breezes are blowing harder these days. The leaves are slowly, hesitatingly falling to the ground. The flowers have bloomed out. They all have had their day; days of sunshine and listre, and now they have faded away. "Change and decay in all around I see." More so when the funeral bell tolls out the sad news that some dear one has gone to her eternal rest, after days of sunshine and listre, smiles and tears. Christians, however, though saddened by the loss of their loved ones, need not be hopeless, for the parting spirit soars upwards toward a glorious spring that knows neither change nor decay. Their heavenly Gardener sees to that. With these and kindred thoughts we write the obituary of Mrs. R. W. Richter.

Alice Henrietta Reuter was born Feb. 11, 1858, at D'Hanis, Texas, the daughter of William Reuter and his wife, Wilhelmine nee Tipps. Her childhood days were spent under the parental care until she grew to young womanhood. She grew up under difficult pioneer days with little schooling. At the age of 19 she was united in holy wedlock with Mr. R. W. Richter, March 1, 1877. The young couple made their home in the Upper Seco Valley, 25 miles north of D'Hanis. She was the mother of eight children, four sons and four daughters. While rearing and educating her family with three private teachers in her home, she made use of the opportunity in educating herself. Good books afforded her a wider field of knowledge, and a keen mind made her a well read person even in her old age.

She was a deeply religious woman, bringing up her family in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. She set a good example. Seeing the need of the Church, she went to adult instruction under Rev. Czerkus and was confirmed and baptized Nov. 22, 1903, in the Quilhi Lutheran Church. When the Richter family made their home five miles south in Hondo they took an active part in the congregational life of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. She was one of the 22 charter members of St. Paul's when it was organized in 1908. She and her family ever since have taken an active part in building the congregation. Being a member of the Ladies' Aid Society from its beginning, she attended services and meetings until the past few years when her failing eyesight and hearciations, accomplishments, fellowship, happy and unhappy incidents at Hondo Field. Only then will dawn the full realization of the impression your stay at Hondo Field made upon your life and the actual enjoyment experienced.

"I say to you—thanks and Godspeed."

COMETS ONE OF NATION'S TOP TEAMS IN THEIR CLASS

Hondo Field's colorful Comet grid squad is listed as one of the nation's two top "roving service teams" in the latest issue of "Williamson's 1945 Champions," a New Orleans publication staffed by well-informed sports scribes.

The Comets were placed in the "traveling team" column because seven of their 11-game schedule were played away from home. In every instance they drew tremendous acclaim from fans for their spectacular, wide-open system employed for striking power.

Paul B. Williamson's Rating Table of 1945 listed Army as the best team; Fleet City as the best service team; the winner of the AAF Training Command Skymasters and Third Air Force game as the best Army Air Forces service team. Hondo Field shared honors with Bergstrom AAF, Austin, Texas, as the best traveling service teams in the country.

18,806 DISCHARGED IN ELEVEN WEEKS AT RANDOLPH

A total of 18,806 service men and women have been discharged or relieved from active duty from the AAF Western Flying Training Separation Center at Randolph Field during the past 11 weeks.

During the period from Dec. 3 through Dec. 9, Randolph Field has turned 2,557 AAF personnel to civilian life—1,935 enlisted men and 522 officers.

Despite her physical ailments and old age, Mrs. Richter was able to keep house when the family moved to Hondo in 1941. She had lost the use of one eye and the past year her eyesight gradually faded and also her hearing. The outside world was shut off to her. A glandular swelling of the throat affected her hearing completely and after a few months she became bedridden. She went quietly to sleep Sunday morning, Dec. 9, 1945, at 3 a. m., having reached the ripe age of 87 years, 9 months, and 23 days. Her family, who had tended her in loving care and devotion, was at her bedside.

Those lamenting her departure are her aged husband, Mr. R. W. Richter; children, Mrs. Christine Rothe of San Antonio, Paul Richter, Mrs. Alma Nester, Mrs. Mamie Schroeder, Mrs. Minnie Schweers, and Guido Richter, all of Hondo; 22 grandchildren, 22 great grandchildren, and three great great grandchildren; and a host of relatives and friends in this community who join with us in our prayer, "Rest in Peace." Two sons preceded her in death, Willie Richter in 1900 and Carl Richter in 1918; also, one sister, Mrs. Fritz Rothe, who died in 1941.

Funeral services were held Monday, Dec. 10, at Horger Funeral Home at 3 p. m., with her pastor, Rev. M. J. Lorfing, officiating. Interment was made in the W. O. W. section of Oakwood Cemetery. The grandchildren who served as pallbearers are as follows: Louis Rothe, Robert Schroeder, William Rothe, Hugo Schweers, Jr., Carl Richter and Walter Nester.—J. M. L.

BOBBY CAMERON LOST OFF FLORIDA COAST

ROBERT C. CAMERON, ARM 3/C

Mrs. Ed Cameron of Hondo received a message Thursday night, Dec. 6, from the commanding officer of the Naval Air Station, Banana River, Florida, informing her that her son, Robert Charles Cameron, Aerial Radio Mechanic third class, had been missing since 7:50 P. M., December 5, 1945, while on an air-sea rescue mission. Bobby, chief radio operator on a Martin marine bomber, was one of thirteen men reported missing when the bomber failed to return from a search for five torpedo bombers which had disappeared after they took off from the Fort Lauderdale Navy base last Wednesday. There were fourteen crewmen on these missing planes.

The disappearance of the six bombers marshalled every facility of the Navy, Coast Guard and Army Air Forces. At times more than 200 planes flew 300 miles out to sea. Others flew low over the vast Everglades searching for survivors or wreckage. No trace of the lost planes and men was found and in another message to Mrs. Cameron on Monday, Dec. 10, the commanding officer stated that the search had proved futile. He said:

"Deeply regret to inform you that exhaustive search for your son, Robert Charles Cameron, ARM 3/C, has proved futile. Appropriate memorial services will be held in the Station chapel at 1 P. M. Wednesday, twelve December, for your son. My deepest sympathy and that of the personnel of this Station goes to you in your and our great loss."

Bobby, 21, was born in Hondo on March 3, 1924. Following his graduation from Hondo High School in 1941, he attended the University of Texas a year and a half, leaving in April 1943 to enlist in the Navy. He received gunner's training at Jacksonville, Fla., aviation radio training at Memphis, Tenn., and radar training at Seattle, Wash. Following six months overseas service at a land base on Morotai, Netherlands East Indies, he returned to the States last May. He spent a 35-day leave with his mother here and then returned to Memphis for special training. He was then sent to Florida and was planning to leave Friday, Dec. 7, for a visit home.

His survivors are his mother, Mrs. Ed Cameron; one sister, Mrs. Philip Dunham, of Hondo, and one brother, Wood Cameron of Temple, Tex.

COMETS SCORE 56 MORE POINTS THAN OPPONENTS

The smoke of Hondo Field's grid battles having cleared, a recapitulation of the Comets' successful season shows they scored 56 more points than the combined total of 111 points rolled up by opposing teams in their 11 games.

Coach Bob Coe, too, is making claim to the distinction of having produced a new team for each game—out of necessity of course. Lt. Coe, former assistant to the famed Amos Alonzo Stagg of the College of the Pacific, believes he had a greater turnover of team personnel than any other squad in the country. During the season, the Comets lost between 75 and 80 men, via discharges, transfers and injuries, but always managed to field a formidable club numbering from 35 to 50 men.

This factor was a constant headache to Coe, who every week had to begin training virtually a new team for the next grip scrap. He could never use the same eleven twice.

As the result, some 140 or 150 Air Forces soldiers received the benefit of Coe's gridiron training genius and the valuable experience of having played on one of the country's leading service teams.

Men who know football best don't quite know how Hondo did it, but despite the loss of a great many players, the unpredictable Comet turned in a creditable season of wins and one tie against four defeats. A typical example of the Comets' losses was the victory near miss they registered against the highly-touted University of Tulsa to close their schedule. Hondo led the Golden Hurricane, 18 to 0, until the fourth period, when the Tulsa mustered mysterious might, staged a spectacular passing attack and took advantage of eleventh-hour breaks and the only bad Hondo punt to nose out the airmen, 20 to 18.

That game produced a Hondo aerial show that Tulsa is still talking about, featuring a lanky 19-year-old Hondo city lad, Stanley Hollmig, as the artilleryman, and a former All-America honorable mention from Kansas U., Otto Schnellbacher, as the receiver. This combination netted three touchdowns. Hollmig completed five passes that day—one for 46 yards in a 73-yard touchdown play, and another a 40-yard toss in a 70-yard bell ringer and both to the brilliant Kansas receiver.

In its next to the last game, Hondo starred Ivan Cunningham, crafty backfield ace and former SMU captain, who was the whole show as the Comets rolled over Texas' Southwestern University, 19 to 7. Injuries kept Cunningham out of the Tulsa game, sparing the Hurricane a greater disappointment. Tulsa had the reputation of a great defensive team and swamped Arkansas University, yet Hondo scored almost as many points as the combined total of both clubs that defeated the Sooner Staters, which included championship winning Indiana and Oklahoma A. & M.

In Hondo's last nine games, the Comets won six, and the three they lost were only by two-point margins. One of these was the 28-to-26 loss to the powerful Fort Warren, Wyo. Broncs. The 2nd Air Force, the 4th Air Force, or Minnesota University didn't score as many points against the Broncs as did the Comets.

Coe, whose wide-open brand of spectacular football proved remarkably adaptable to the rapid development of new teams at Hondo this season, had the benefit of an assistant mentor in only the first four games. The Comets' success, in addition to the excellence and drive of individual players, is due largely to the ingenuity, vigor and dogged stick-to-itiveness of Coach Coe, a former College of the Pacific backfield star and assistant coach and head coach at Stockton, Calif. His Army charges plainly got a big kick out of playing his razzle-dazzle system of spread formation football and the many new men took to it like ducks to water—a factor which made Coe's heavy duties lighter. And the fans to a man loved the brand of football the Comets put out.

FLYING TRAINING COMMANDS TO BE MERGED

Army Air Forces Eastern and Western Flying Training Commands will be merged Dec. 15 into one unit, it was announced this week by Brig. Gen. Robert C. Oliver, the new commanding general at WFTC headquarters, Randolph Field.

The consolidation will bring all AAF flying training installations throughout the United States, including Hondo Army Air Field, under the jurisdiction of one headquarters located at Randolph Field.

The new command will consist at present of 23 stations from coast to coast.

Gen. Oliver is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy, a veteran of 26 years' service, and although originally commissioned in the Field Artillery, transferred to the Air Corps in 1930 and has more than

WILL THERE BE A STEEL STRIKE?

Not if the CIO abides by its pledged word, given only last spring.

QUESTION: What would be the general effect on the country of a steel strike?

ANSWER: Over 40 percent of all the factory workers in the country earn their living by making steel into useful products for American life. A shut-down of the steel industry would be a disastrous blow to reconversion and would cause a serious loss in both wages and industrial production at a time when they were most needed.

QUESTION: Is it true that the Steelworkers Union has pledged itself not to strike?

ANSWER: Yes. Every contract which the Union has signed this year with the various steel companies has a clause wherein the Union agrees not to strike during the life of the contract.

QUESTION: Are these contracts still in effect?

ANSWER: Yes. They were signed in the spring of 1945 to run until October, 1946.

QUESTION: Who signed for the Union?

ANSWER: Its international officials—Philip Murray, Van Bittner, Clinton Golden and others—and the local Union heads at the various plants.

QUESTION: Is there no "escape clause" by which either side could end the agreements?

ANSWER: No. The Union demanded a fixed, long-term contract and got it.

QUESTION: Why did they want a long-term contract?

ANSWER: In the Union's own words before the War Labor Board, "The Union's request for a termination date of October, 1946, is not made capriciously or pressed here for bargaining purposes. It represents the considered view of the Union that only such a term will adequately serve the needs of stability."

QUESTION: Did the recent strike vote violate the contracts?

ANSWER: No. Only an actual strike would violate them.

QUESTION: Haven't there been strikes already during the life of the contracts?

ANSWER: Yes. There were 998 strikes in steel plants during the past year alone. They were mostly local strikes which the Union characterizes as "wildcat," but they meant a big loss in production.

QUESTION: Does the end of the war justify changing the contracts?

ANSWER: No. The bond was sealed on both sides and should be kept whether times be good or bad. The steel companies are continuing to live up to these agreements. If a strike is called, it will be in clear violation of the existing contracts.

A strike in the face of existing contracts would shatter any confidence in the validity of union agreements in the steel industry.

STEIN-TSCHIRHART

A wedding of much interest was solemnized in St. Stanislaus Catholic Church Tuesday, Nov. 20, at 9 a. m., when Miss Theresa G. Tschirhart, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Tschirhart of Medina, became the bride of Alton E. Lake, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stein, son of Cliff, Texas. Rev. Jacob Schiele officiated at the double-ring ceremony at Nuptial High Mass.

The bride's attendants entered church to the strains of a beautiful Wedding March, in the following order: Misses Doris Stein, niece of the groom; Darline Tschirhart, cousin of the bride; Estelle Letcher, cousin of the bride, followed by the bride, followed by the groom, followed by the bride's father, who gave her away in marriage. At the altar railing were met by the bridegroom and his groomsmen, Marvin Bepert and his groomsmen, nephew of the groom; as best man, nephew of the groom; the Stanley Tschirhart, brother of the bride and Olen Haby, cousin of the bride.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin, sweetheart neckline of lace and tiny beads; long sleeves tapered to a point, and the full skirt and long train of satin were set in lace. The finger-tip veil of bridal lace. The bride's head was crowned with a beaded coronet. She wore a lacy beaded necklace. She carried a bouquet of white gladiolus and lace fern tied with white satin ribbons. Miss Stein wore blue satin and net. Miss Tschirhart, pink satin and net, and the maid of honor, Miss Letcher wore blue satin and net. All were wearing gold chains and cross-earrings and carried bouquets of pink gladiolus with lace fern and matching ribbons.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The four tiered wedding cake with white icing, and small pink roses and silver leaves was topped with a miniature bride and groom, was cut by the bride.

Mr. Stein received an honorable discharge from the U. S. Army Air Corps, having served three and a half years in service. He served 25 months of this time overseas.

At a late hour the newlyweds departed for a brief wedding trip, and upon returning home they will be at home at Cliff, Texas, where the groom is engaged in farming.—Banner New Era.

ENLISTED MEN WITH 21 MONTHS SERVICE NOT TO GO OVER

Col. Jean Edens, Commanding Officer of the San Antonio US Army Recruiting District, stated today that effective immediately no enlisted man who has had 21 months or more of honorable service since Sept. 16, 1940 will be sent overseas for permanent assignment.

Army Veterans have until Nov. 21st to take advantage of an opportunity that will mean much to them now and in the years to come. Colonel Edens added, "By reenlisting in the Army before that date they may keep the highest temporary grade of permanent grade at which they were discharged, provided they were discharged after May 12th, 1945. Not only may they go back into Military Service with their previous rating, but they may also choose their branch of service. Waiting for them in the Regular Army are many opportunities never before equaled. The Army wants the best of America."

What Helps Agriculture Helps All of Us

WHAT is it that helps agriculture? We know that to grow good crops it takes good seed, fertile soil, favorable climate, and the skill and experience of the individual. Likewise in the production of livestock you need well-bred animals, proper care and feeding, plus a telligent management.

Through better seeds and new types of plants like hybrid corn, through soil conservation methods, better land management, and improved machinery, through more effective control of pests and parasites, America has reached a level of food production never before achieved by any nation in history. Therein lies much of America's strength for the future.

By many a tragic example, history teaches us that when food supplies fail, nations fail. We of America must see to it that our agriculture becomes always a stronger, surer base for the economy of our nation. This is a task not only for you as producers but also for us who, by providing nationwide facilities and services, bridge the gap which separates farmers and ranchers from the distant consumers who must have their products.

And because our business is so closely linked with the land, we at Swift & Company are vitally interested in all developments that help agriculture. And so in these Swift pages we publish helpful information, knowing that a prosperous agriculture is essential to the livestock and meat industry—and to the prosperity of the nation as a whole.

OUR LIVESTOCK JUDGING METHODS

By R. G. JOHNSON

Head, Department of Animal Husbandry, Oregon State College

Domestic animals are machines for converting plant material into meat, fibers, and other human needs. Competition forces the modern farmer to evaluate efficiency in terms of tons or bushels per acre, dairy production in pounds of butterfat per cow per year, and poultry results in number of eggs per year. Thus, since the basic resource is feed and not animals, shouldn't livestock producers evaluate breeding stock on the basis of feed consumed?

The show ring standards for judging animals by external appearance have given us advancement up to a certain point, but breeding for the show ring does not always lead to efficient feed utilization.

A step in the right direction is the increasing use of proved sires. Today, through use of artificial insemination, the purebred breeder is greatly assisted in the establishment and increase of efficient blood lines.

Tomorrow's "yardstick" will not only be bigger yields per acre but also more pounds of meat and fiber per ton of feed.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW? How many of the amino acids essential to health are found in meat?

What governs the price of livestock?

In what dessert is meat an important ingredient?

Answers to these questions may be found in the various articles which are printed elsewhere on this page.

THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

A smart steer on range goes to where the forage is best. A smart livestock producer sells where the market is best. There are many sources of information to help him decide where that best market may be. Radio networks and nearby stations report daily on receipts and prices at central and local markets. Commission houses and their field men are ready to give personal advice on the best time and place to sell. Newspapers publish detailed descriptions of market conditions. Various timely reports are available from the U. S. D. A. and other impartial sources on trends and developments in the livestock-and-meat industry.

In making their bids, livestock buyers also use current market information. Acceptance of any price offered is entirely up to the producer or his sales agent. Meat packing plants and their buyers are located at so many widespread points that if a producer is not satisfied with prices offered by any one buyer, he has a choice of several others to which he may sell his animals.

Moreover, with 3,500 meat packing plants and 26,000 other concerns and individuals who slaughter livestock commercially, there is bound to be keen competitive bidding for your livestock. Barring meat rationing and price ceilings, livestock prices are governed by what the packer can get for the meat and by-products.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS and A HAPPY NEW YEAR

"AMINOS" ARE IMPORTANT TO YOU! From the nutrition research laboratories comes the story of amino acids, mysterious substances found in the proteins we eat. Aminos are used by our bodies to build and rebuild our tissues, organs, and blood. They also help fight off infections.

Of the 23 known aminos, ten are absolutely essential to health and even to life itself. Meat is rich in all ten of them. That's why doctors, working to rebuild the shattered bodies of wounded servicemen, order diets with large amounts of meat. That is also why everybody should eat meat for health as well as for its fine flavor and its "stick-to-the-ribs" food value.

Swift and other meat packers, through The American Meat Institute, are telling this vital story of meat and its health-building aminos in many millions of advertising messages. As people read this story, there will be wider markets for meat—and the livestock you produce.

SORGHUMS ON INCREASE AS CATTLE FEED

By A. D. WEBER

Head, Department of Animal Husbandry Kansas State College

Proof that the new combine-type grain sorghums, Midland milo and Westland milo are the equal of corn as cattle feed, which was demonstrated recently at the Fort Hays Branch of the Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station, will interest feeders who fatten cattle in the Southwest.

Yearling steers fed these two new grains for 150 days gained 2 1/2 pounds per head daily. This was equal to results gained by feeding yearling steers No. 2 corn over a like period. The steers in each lot graded the same (choice), and sold at the same price ($17.00 per cwt.). All grains were fed at the rate of 13 pounds per head daily. Each ration included sweet sorghum silage, 37 pounds; cottonseed meal, 1 1/2 pounds, and finely ground limestone, 1-10 pound.

Three similar feeding trials also proved conclusively that the new combine-type grain sorghums compare favorably with corn as cattle fattening feed—Wheatland milo, Colby milo and Westland milo being tested in these trials.

Increasing use of native feed grains, such as these new type grain sorghums, will greatly benefit the stability and prosperity of this agricultural region.

DAWSON NAMED ON ALL-STAR GRID TEAM

C. C. Dawson of Hondo, who is taking Naval flight training at St. Olaf's College, Minn., on Nov. 18 was named on the 1945 Minnesota College conference all-star football team, according to a sports story in the St. Paul Pioneer Press. Dawson, former Hondo Owl star, is the son of Mrs. Nora Dawson of this city. Excerpts from the story follow:

"Backs packing power, speed and deception and linemen whose offensive charge oftentimes surpasses their stone wall like defensive play go to make up a team which would bring a smile to the face of the most pessimistic coach in the business.

"And that's exactly what you have in the 1945 Minnesota College conference all-star eleven picked by conference coaches for the Pioneer Press today.

"A line anchored by Gustavus Adolphus' two great tackles—Keith Skogman and Bob Gove—and St. Olaf's center, Tom Stoops, is plugged at the guard by the Gusties, Miles Johnson and the Oles' Chuck Dawson and flanked by St. Thomas' Ted Molitor and St. John's Tom Spencer.

"Dawson's selection as a guard is unique in that he started the season as a backfield star and when Coach Mark Almli ran short of guards, moved in and plugged the hole so well that he was one of the few unanimous choices for the all-conference team."

To Our Customers:

Due to lack of space necessary for operation of a modern Food Store and Market, we will close our Grocery department on December 15th. To all who have been patrons of this department through the years, we say, "Thank You".

This change will give us additional space for our other lines, and we will continue to carry the best in Dry Goods, Clothing, Ready-to-Wear, Shoes, etc. In addition, we will carry a line of furniture for every room in the home as well as modern home appliances carrying such nationally known trade names as FRIGIDAIRE, BENDIX, UNIVERSAL, and EUREKA.

People Make Fun of Mrs. Beulah Hankins

INDIANAPOLIS, INDIANA. — Mrs. Beulah Hankins, who lives at 634 S. Collier, wrote an amusing letter to Faultless Starch Company recently. She said,

"I want to tell you about your wonderful starch. I sure think it's grand. Several people make fun of me for not boiling my starch. They say this starch is for lazy people. I have a boy four years old and I iron ten to fifteen suits of clothes a week for him. I love to iron them as Faultless Starch makes easy ironing. I also have twins, eight months old, and do they have a laundry—from twenty to twenty-five dresses a week and most of these are white ones. They iron so smooth and smell good. Thanks again for Faultless Starch. It sure saves me many hours of ironing."

SAVES TIME AND WORK
That's probably the most wonderful letter anyone could write about Faultless Starch! Mrs. Hankins is a busy wife and mother and she has found that Faultless Starch saves time and work for her. She makes starch without cooking and she has found that Faultless Starch makes her ironing easy. She gets a kick out of people saying that her Faultless Starch is for lazy people. Certainly she isn't lazy!

MADE A SPECIAL WAY
If you are busy, too—especially on washday and ironing day—you deserve the time-saving and work-saving help Faultless Starch can give you. You see Faultless Starch is made a special way to help you through your washing and to save you hours of ironing. So why not enjoy Faultless Starch? All you have to do is ask your grocer for it. Then you can make perfect hot starch without cooking! And you can make ironing so smooth, easy and beautiful. It's yours for the asking... Faultless Starch!—Adv.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Spratt Herlong, successful motion picture producer, had married Elizabeth, after her first husband, Arthur Kittredge, had been reported killed in World War I. They had three children, Dick, Cherry and Brian. Elizabeth had been orphaned when a baby and had been raised by her aunt and uncle in Tulsa. During one summer vacation from school, she had gone swimming at the country club. While diving she met Arthur Kittredge. He was from Chicago, but was at that time employed in Tulsa as a chemist. She went dancing with him the first night she met him. He had proven a strong attraction for her.

CHAPTER V

He agreed and they sat down on the grass again. Like herself he had no immediate family, he told her. His parents had died long ago, and he had worked his way through the University of what he could still call nothing else but Chicago. After a few moments' conversation they found that Elizabeth's uncle, who was also in the oil business, knew several members of the company where Arthur was employed, so they justified their acquaintance by that. They went dancing that night, and as the next day was Sunday they went swimming again. A week later Elizabeth was refusing to undertake the projected trip to Canada. A month later she was refusing to go back to college. In September they were married.

There was no use in anybody's saying eighteen was too young to be married, she hadn't known him long enough, she would never have another chance to go to college, Arthur couldn't support her in the style to which she was accustomed, or giving any of the other sensible advice older people like to give young girls in love. She and Arthur wanted each other and nobody could keep them apart. Elizabeth found there was still some of her father's property left, so with what had been intended for the rest of her expensive schooling they furnished their home. That it was a very modest little place troubled them not at all. It was a place of peace and ecstasy. Elizabeth was tremulous with joy at finding out what it was like to be loved. She had always had plenty of friends, her masculine acquaintances had let her know she was desirable, and her aunt and uncle had done their dutiful best to be affectionate, but nobody had ever loved her. Arthur loved her.

She was not very good at expressing it. But in the evenings while he read, or worked on the pamphlets he wrote describing his researches for the benefit of other oil chemists, she would sit with the mending and look up to watch the line of light down his profile, and every now and then Arthur would glance up and smile at her and she would be unutterably happy. Sometimes when they went out together and did something quite ordinary like seeing a movie or playing tennis, she would say, "I never knew any two people could have as much fun together as we do," and he would grin at her and answer, "It's great finding out, isn't it?" That was all they really needed to say to each other about it. But Arthur had more talent for words than she had, and now and then he would make it articulate.

One night when she was nearly asleep he turned over and said, "Elizabeth, if you're still awake, I was just thinking about us, and how I get such a thrill every time I see you, and I remembered an old myth I read in the university library one day."

"Tell me," said Elizabeth. She moved closer to him and he slipped his arm around her as he went on.

"I don't know who thought it up, the Persians or Greeks or somebody. They said that in the beginning everybody in the world was happy. Then they sinned, and to punish them the gods decreed that every soul should be split in half. Since then each of us is born incomplete, and has to wander over the earth looking for the other half of himself, and nobody can be happy unless he finds it. But if you're very lucky you find it, and unite with the one who's really the other half of you, and then you're right with the universe because you're complete."

She drew a long joyful breath. "Arthur, how beautiful! And how right—I think I felt like that the first time I saw you."

"So did I. You came down off the diving board and I pulled you out of the water, and you were there, it was right. Funny to think back now—there was so much I wanted to do, so much I wanted to learn, about oil and plants and people and stars—I still want to do everything like that as much as ever, but it's so different now. You've no idea how different it is."

"Yes I have. Everything is different now that we're together. I do love you so!" she said.

Arthur kissed her shoulder in the dark.

They both wanted to have children. Elizabeth loved babies. Ever since she was a little girl playing with her dolls she had looked forward to the time when she could have a real baby of her own. They talked about it eagerly. But Arthur, who had a deep sense of protection, thought they should wait a year or two. Elizabeth was so young. Besides, they had been married in the fall of 1916, and by spring it was evident that the United States was about to enter the war. "Suppose I should be called into the army," he said, "and have to leave you here alone."

Elizabeth shivered. Now that she had found Arthur, the idea of living without him was more than she could bear to contemplate. "The war won't last much longer," she said. "I'm sure it won't. We don't have to have children right now—we've got years and years before us, but you do want them, don't you?"

Arthur grinned at her with tender eagerness. "You're mighty right I do."

Then the United States was in the war, and there was no keeping Arthur back from it. Arthur loved people. The people of France and Belgium and Great Britain, cloudy masses to Elizabeth because she had never seen them except on one or two schoolgirl tours of Europe, were as real to Arthur as the people of Tulsa, though he had never been to Europe at all. While she had been seeing the war in terms of newspaper accounts he was seeing it as human beings starving and bleeding before a force of evil that decent men must stop. Arthur had registered for the draft, though he had been deferred because he was married; but he wanted to go. Terrified, Elizabeth pled with him.

"Arthur, have mercy on me! Suppose I wanted to go out to France or Flanders—don't you understand?"

He doubled up his fists. "Yes, I understand."

"Have you thought about it? I mean thought about it?"

"A lot of times. While you were asleep. I'd look at you in the dark. You looked so trusting."

"Arthur, you're not going. It's different with some men. I suppose I mean it's different with some women. They've got somebody besides their husbands. Please understand. My father was a bank and my mother was a bell. The bank sent the checks and the bell rang to tell me what to do. I'm not trying to say I was unhappy—I wasn't, because I didn't know any better. But then, all of a sudden, you."

"You don't want to go, do you, Arthur?"

"No, I don't. But my darling, we've got to win this war or lose it. If we lose it, God help us. Don't you see it? We're fighting so other people will have the same chance at life that we've had—not only the foreigners, but Americans, the Americans who aren't born yet. We've been thinking, here in our favored corner of the world, that we were safe. Now we've found that we're not. Not even this country is safe unless we're willing to fight the brutes of the world so we can keep it so."

Her mind yielded, for he was uncontestedly right. But she could not help protesting still.

"What about those children I was going to have?"

"If we win this war," said Arthur, "you'll have your children. If we don't," he added grimly, "you won't want them."

So, after not quite a year of marriage, Arthur joined the army. From the day they were married until the day he left, he and Elizabeth had not been separated for as long as twenty-four hours. The first night she slept alone the bed seemed twice its usual size and the room seemed enormous.

Crumpled up on that same bed, Elizabeth was telling herself the room would always be empty. She had nothing. No husband, no children, no desire for anything else without them. She was alive, and that was strange, she thought dully as the hours of that dreadful night dragged by, strange that when two persons had interlaced their lives into such a unit as theirs, half of that unit could be torn away and leave the other half still breathing, alive for no purpose but to feel the anguish of the separation.

She felt nothing else. The morning came at length, and other mornings followed it, but for a long time Elizabeth was not conscious of anything but the immensity of her pain. She went through the usual movements of existence, because the routine was so automatic that she followed it without paying attention to what she was doing. Every day blended into the next without anything to mark the transitions, so that she would have found it hard to say how long it had been since they told her Arthur was dead, or whether some occurrence had taken place yesterday or a week ago. It seemed to her that she was alone all the time, though this was not true, for a great many friends came to see her. She was grateful, but they could not penetrate her loneliness. The shock had been too great. Sometimes she wished they would stop coming in, talking and making her answer, but it did not matter very much. She simply drifted from day into night and back into day again, without expectation. Whatever happened around her, she was not really aware of anything except that Arthur was dead, she had to get through the time without him, and she hoped she could do so without being too much of a nuisance to anybody.

Several weeks after the end of the war she received a tactfully worded letter from the Red Cross, telling her that Arthur had died in a German field hospital. There were some gentle phrases about how the stretcher-bearers paid no attention to international differences in their errands of mercy. Before she had read halfway down the page Elizabeth recognized it as a form letter composed by some expert writer to soften the regret that would be felt by recipients on learning that their loved ones had had to spend their last hours among foreigners. It was very kind of them, no doubt, to have gone to the trouble of getting up such a pretty letter, but neither this nor any other literature could help her. She tore the sheet of paper into small pieces and let them dribble out of her hand into the wastebasket.

By this time it was as if her single pain had changed into a thousand small ones striking her with swift short anguish, each in a different place from the one before. Earlier, there had been no details. Now whatever she saw, every object she touched, stabbed her with its own small blade of memory. She could not pick up a table-napkin without remembering what fun she and Arthur had had choosing the linens for their home. Every time she opened the china-closet she could hear their secret laughter as they garnished the top shelf with the atrocities some of their relatives had thrust on them as wedding presents. If she looked out of a front window she could almost see Arthur coming down the street from his office and raising his head to see if he could catch sight of her anywhere and wave at her before he came into the house. Arthur was everywhere, so vividly that there were even moments when she forgot he would not be there any more. She would wake up in the night and begin to turn over softly so as not to disturb him; sometimes if the library door was closed she would find herself tiptoeing past it, lest the sound of her approach interrupt the work he had brought home to do. When this happened she would bring herself up with a start that reminded her, "But he isn't there, he'll never be there again." The pain would slash into her, deep and quick, until she thought, "This is worse than it was at first. And there'll never be anything else. Arthur is dead."

She did not make any display of her grief. This was partly because she had an inborn dread of public weeping, but mainly because it did not occur to her to do so. What she and Arthur had shared had been too profound for them ever to talk about it except to each other. Now it would have seemed sacrilegious and obscene to try to tell anybody else what he had meant to her. Arthur had been her husband; no matter how much his friends had valued him, he did not stand in that relationship to anyone but herself, and only she could feel the severing of that tie. So she bore what she had to bear alone and in silence.

And then one morning, in the spring after the Armistice, she discovered that she did not have much money left to live on.

It gave her a start, not because she had thought she was rich but because in the past few months she had not thought about it at all. She had been spending very little, mechanically writing checks for such necessities as food and rent since it was part of the inescapable routine. When a phone call from Uncle Clarence—who had again constituted himself her guardian, as he saw she was in no state to attend to her affairs herself—advised her that she should meet him at the bank the next morning, she obeyed his summons, mildly wondering what it was about. Uncle Clarence and the bank vice president told her it was to make arrangements for her pension as a soldier's widow.

A synthetic rubber developed entirely from petroleum gases is now being used in the manufacture of truck-tire inner tubes. Called Butyl, the new synthetic provides an extra margin of safety against puncture, holds air much longer.

Since Pearl Harbor, the United States has produced as much synthetic rubber as the entire world's supply of natural rubber for the 18 years from 1900 through 1918.

The rubber industry's pre-war capacity of 65,000,000 tires a year has been increased to more than 110,000,000 civilian tires annually.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Hold First Spot in
Santa's Toyland

Busy With War Work, He Was Unable to Make New Metal Toys.

The celebration of V-J Day didn't come soon enough to put Santa Claus' toyland schedule to a peacetime basis. Although he will carry more than a $200,000,000 pack of playthings this Christmas, less than 8 per cent of the toys under Yuletide trees will be of metal and most of these will be the simplest types of stamped-out metal.

There will be only a token showing of wheel toys, electric trains and mechanical toys of metal, a survey of toyland supplies inicates, but better quality lines of wood and cardboard playthings are assured. Rubber toys are not expected to appear in any volume and plastic items will be limited to the same small quantities as last year due to material shortages.

The brightest spot on toyland is the doll parade and the parlor game sector where there are reported to be good supplies of many old favorites like Camelot and Monopoly that children and parents can enjoy together, although cardboard and dyed-cut limitations have made new items scarce. Classic card game favorites like Rook, Pit and Crossword Lexicon have been produced in large volume, as they require a minimum of cardboard. Bonanza, combining the technique of Michigan and rummy, is another favorite that provides fun for all the family. Escape-type games that are easy to learn predominate.

Nation's Christmas Tree Was Dedicated in 1925

The Nation's Christmas Tree was so dedicated on Christmas Day, 1925.

The tree, one of the Sequoia gigantea, is estimated to be 267 feet tall and is located in General Grant National park, 64 miles east of Fresno, Calif.

Appropriate and well-attended ceremonies are held beneath the tree each year, weather and other conditions permitting.

"O Come, All Ye Faithful"

Calling from all Churches throughout all the lands, with the hymn most often heard, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," carol singers have become a most vital part of every community's Christmas. Without the boys and girls singing in the Churches, in the homes and over the air, Christmas would lack the real spirit that it has acquired in this country.

Santa's Toy Outlook

Stuffed animals will be plentiful in Santa's pack, but Dyde, the pre-war favorite that drank from a bottle and had its diapers changed, can't be expected until 1946 for V-J Day came too late to make rubber available for Christmas toys.

Doll furniture such as cradles, beds and high chairs will be available but in limited quantities. Doll carriages are being manufactured in volume but there will be only a limited number with metal parts.

ETERNAL STAR OF BETHLEHEM

The Wise Men may have been the only ones who actually saw the Star of Bethlehem.

But: According to St. Matthew, when Herod heard that the Wise Men were seeking the Christ Child whose star they had seen in the east, he summoned the chief priests and scribes of the people and demanded of them where it had been predicted that the Christ should be born.

"And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judea: for thus it is written by the prophet."—St. Matthew 2:5.

It was written by the prophet—and nothing could prevent it.

And after the Wise Men had been directed to Bethlehem by Herod: "... lo, the star, which they had seen in the east, went before them till it came and stood over where the young Child was.

"When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy."—Matthew 2:9-10.

Apparently, even the Wise Men lost sight of the Star temporarily—hence they rejoiced when it returned to their vision after they had departed from Herod.

The Star of Bethlehem was neither kindled nor extinguished when Christ was born in Judea—it was written by the prophet, it has vanquished every despot from Herod to Hitler and survived every tyranny and cruelty that evil men could think of: and the hearts of men, turning from foul memories and associations, have—and shall—rejoice in the eternal light of righteousness and peace.

HOLD CHRISTMAS IN BETHLEHEM

All Bethlehem turns out on December 24 for the arrival of the Patriarch of Jerusalem—Cardinal of the Holy Land—who each year brings to Bethlehem an ancient effigy of the Infant Jesus, which he lays in the manger within the cave where Christ was born.

Dramatically the procession approaches; heralded by a single horseman, his banner streaming aloft. A corps of native police mounted upon fiery Arabian horses follows, and then another single horseman upon a prancing black steed carrying the cross on high; the patriarch in his cardinal and ermine, mitred bishops, clergy in embroidered vestments and white robed acolytes—swinging golden censers—precede the jeweled pavilion of the Holy Child.

The procession enters the Church of the Nativity. The public is not permitted to witness the actual placing of the effigy, as that part of the church—built above the Cave of the Nativity—is under the jurisdiction of the Greek Orthodox church.

On Christmas Eve, members of all denominations assemble to sing carols above the birthplace of the Holy Child before midnight mass is solemnized in the Church of the Nativity.

Prior to the 20th century, soccer was virtually confined to England where it originated and has been played for more than 900 years, says Collier's. But in the past four decades, the game has spread to 55 countries and become, in several of them, almost as popular as it is in England.

ONLY one tractor tire has the patented "Center Bite" tread design... that's the Firestone Ground Grip. This "Center Bite" will give your tractor up to 16% more pull at the drawbar. That's because the triple-braced bars cross at the very heart of the traction zone where the center of your load falls. And it doesn't catch trash and clog up like open-center treads.

But the extra pull of a "Center Bite" Ground Grip tire is not its only advantage. It has a 40% longer tread life and the cord body is 14% stronger. That is why more farmers use Firestone Ground Grips than any other make.

You will find that you can save time, money and do a better job of farming with Firestone Ground Grips... the only tires with the "Center Bite."

ON U. S. S. ST. LOUIS

ON THE USS ST. LOUIS—Ben F. McCulloch, quartermaster, third class, USNR, Route 1, Devine, Tex., served in this light cruiser when she made a visit to Kiriun, Formosa.

After picking her careful way through mine-strewn Formosan waters, "the heroine of Pearl Harbor" entered Kiriun harbor Oct. 17 to cover landings by elements of the Chinese 70th Army and thus became the first American ship ever tied up to a Kiriun dock.

She was met by two barge-loads of Chinese civilians who bade her welcome with exploding strings of firecrackers and weird string music. Equally intriguing, for the crew, was the ST. LOUIS' preceding assignment, patrolling China's Yangtze River, with frequent liberty in Shanghai.

The ST. LOUIS, which has been added to the "Magic Carpet" fleet, spent the last 40 days of the war swinging back and forth in the East China Sea, watching over mine-sweepers operating in one of the world's largest minefields, and participating in anti-shipping sweeps along the China coast southeast of Shanghai.

Previously she played a major role in the securing of Okinawa and was a segment of Task Force 58 in carrier-plane strikes against the Japanese homeland.

INFLUENZA WARNING

Reports coming in from various sections of the State indicate that the number of influenza cases appears to be increasing with the advance of the fall season.

Commenting on this situation, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said that most of these cases are mild and lend themselves to treatment readily. He pointed out that two cooperative factors are essential to victims of this disease: First, to call the family physician promptly when suspicious symptoms manifest themselves; and second, to take it easy for a reasonable length of time after the acute stage has subsided.

"It is essential to realize that influenza, no matter how mild the attack, calls for a period of convalescence," Dr. Cox said, "since serious complications can occur if this important fact is ignored. Influenza is not mass-controllable. However, those persons who maintain the highest possible health level at all times, increasing their resistance to communicable disease germs, will have a protective advantage over those more careless persons who abuse their health."

The State Health Officer declared that living by the laws of nature, securing plenty of sleep, daily exercise in the open, nourishing foods and good personal hygiene offer the best known bulwark against all respiratory diseases and added that avoiding habits of any and all kinds detrimental to maximum well being is a wise course to take in the pursuit of good health.

What the RAILROADS mean to your Community

The story of any community is the story of the railroad that serves it. For the pattern of progress has always followed the path of the steel rails.

Not merely growth in population, but growth in the American way of life depends on this living network along which flow the agricultural and industrial products of a great nation.

Southern Pacific serves 989 communities in Texas and Louisiana with over 4,337 miles of rails. In the early days it helped bring growth and success to the towns along its lines. As the road prospered, so did the towns. Last year the payroll of the more than 18,000 Southern Pacific employees in these two states was $49,891,407.00. This, together with the taxes paid by the railroad, contributed materially to the economic stability of these communities.

With the agricultural position of the Southwest fully established, S.P. is now doing its share to help develop the newly discovered industrial possibilities of this region.

Although its present all-important job won't be completed until all of our service men are home, Southern Pacific is even now planning for the future. With the advent of peace is coming inevitably a great surge of industrial progress in the Southwest. Strengthened and improved by its war job, Southern Pacific will be an important factor in the continuing progress of the communities of these two great states.
